

PERSONAL FEEDBACK AND PEER ASSESSMENT FORM

Name: Di Yang(Eddie)

Group: Father and Daughter

About other members of the group:

Grade each individual's contribution to the group as one of the following: Fail, Pass, Merit, or Distinction. You must briefly justify why you have awarded your fellow student that grade.

Name	Grade	Reason
Eva	Merit	The work is very organized and efficient. Ability to work well with others.
Fern	Merit	Has strong system management capabilities.
Karl	Distinction	Has a high leadership art and a strong collective spirit. The work is very organized and efficient.
Georgie	Merit	A stable personality and a high sense of responsibility.
Eimear	Distinction	Willing to work under pressure with leadership qualities. Proactive, independent working ability, and good communication skills.

About yourself

What do you think you could have done to improve your contribution to the group project? (continue on a separate sheet/page if necessary)

This Group Project is definitely a huge gain for me. Not only did we understand the importance of integrating various resources and to organize the division of labor among team members, but also let us realize that hands-on practice, independent exploration and cooperative exchanges are one of the important ways of learning.

For this group assignment, I am mainly responsible for the design and implementation of visual effects. In the process of completion, I am well aware of some areas that need improvement:

1. Insufficient understanding of the project and their respective tasks. At the beginning, I lacked a clear and objective understanding of my task, which led to wrong predictions and wasted a lot of time and manpower.

2. Quick and clear communication between team members. There was a certain lack of communication in the job, which caused some unnecessary waste, such as file format errors, transmission problems, abandoned tasks are still being produced, and so on.

3. The timing is unreasonable. Although we have produced a detailed timetable, we found that time is obviously not enough at work, and the difficulty of the task is underestimated. In addition, at first, I had time to worry, but because the worries were not expressed, in fact, I should confess my worries about the time schedule at the beginning, so that the team can arrange the time more reasonably.

4. Insufficient response to emergencies. During the project, COVID-19 broke out, and the whole project was suddenly struggling. Many tasks were forced to give up. The project engineering was too chaotic, which caused some of my tools to be lost and wasted a lot of time.

This assignment allowed me to consolidate the knowledge I learned before, effectively apply the learning knowledge to specific cases, and deepen my understanding. At the same time, I also learned what cooperation is. I have to listen to others' opinions in the discussion. While conscientiously completing your tasks, you must actively cooperate with and assist others in taking care of the overall situation.